Home Enrichment

Exercise together

Your child's future fitness and activity level are greatly influenced by how you spend your spare time.

So when you can, walk to the shops the library, or a friend's house rather than piling into the car. At home, have your child join you while you do your yoga stretches, practice a dance routine, or follow along with a video workout.

And make sure some family outings are active ones (for instance, bowling, skating, or flying a kite in a park) instead of sedentary ones, such as taking a drive.
